May 2017 Consumer ABS Update

Secondary

- Spreads remained firm to tighter over the month with the exception of rental car ABS. Hertz and Avis ABS spreads widened 20-30 bps on the As and 50+bps on the Bs. Weakness in rental car bonds stems from poor Q1 earnings combined with a continued decrease in used car prices and increased competition from car sharing services.
- Container ABS spreads tightened 20 bps over the month on the back of strong new issue prints from SeaCube and Textainer.
- Subprime auto spreads remained stable over the month despite continued negative headlines, as structures continue to build credit enhancement through delevering.

Consumer News

- Hertz announced disappointing Q1 results driven by lower daily rental pricing and weak residual values.
  - Q1 revenue totaled $1.92bn vs. an estimate of $1.95bn
  - Q1 adjusted loss / share came in at $1.61 vs. an estimated loss / share of $0.84
- Propser Marketplace Inc., an online consumer-finance company, has cut its workforce by 44% since March 2016. Reductions had been due to lower loan originations and higher delinquencies. ■
